ALULU
SS PHONE

600 Miles and it by Cable
oof.

on the New York
Post-Dispatch.
The human voice
from Arlington,
conduits, yesterday
States Navy's
on, John Mills
his voice over instrument con-
al wireless trans-

at Pearl Island,
Espenchied, en-
of the American
aph Co., received age.

atched heard Mills counting:
two, three, four." And then one to seven, and one to nine. He reported back by cablegram the exact numbers
his colleagues across the earth had given him as tests. Espenchied heard Mills speak several sentences, which he copied and sent back by cable to prove that the engineer's voice had reached him.

Wednesday afternoon, President Vail
of the American Telephone and Telephone Co., New York, talked by wire and wireless, via Arlington to San Francisco. When Vail and other officials of the company heard of the success of the talk to Honolulu, they predicted: "Wireless telephone conversation between New York and London, New York and Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Madrid—even Petrograd!"

The distance covered by the message to Hawaii was greater than the distance to any of those places. Were it not for the European war, experts of the American communication system would be conducting experiments in talking to those places.

More Tests to Be Made.
Had the engineer in Hawaii been equipped with sending apparatus such as the one at Arlington it is thought that he could have made vocal reply to Arlington. When the next long-distance tests are made, each station will have a sending and receiving apparatus.

Four thousand six hundred miles is by no means the limit of wireless telephony, by the opinion of men who have discovered and developed the new system which the American Telephone and Telephone Co. has put to use.

Edward Gherard, engineer of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., eventually it will be possible to telephone communications around the globe. Your voice will go to San Francisco, say, by wire, leap
the Pacific through the air and be returned by another wire across Europe
by wire, then span the Atlantic through the ether and return to another wire
here in New York.

Or, if you wish, you may talk to yourself and have your own voice as a medium. After you have ceased talking, the voice to travel great distances. Vail talked to himself in a room in New York, and had the novel sensation of listening to his own words after a brief lapse of time.

Inventions and Appliances.
All the inventions and appliances necessary for the new system of wireless telephony, Gherard said, are the work of engineers of the A. T. & T. and its associate, the Western Electric Co.

Dr. Lee de Forest, inventor and experimenter with wireless telephony and telegony, sent a typewritten statement to newspapers last night, in which he said that he had written to Secretary of the Navy Daniels, congratulating him on the "epoch-making feat on the part of the navy in telephoning across the continent," and claiming full credit therefor because of his patents used at Arlington for wireless telephony. He stated that the success of this "navy experiment" was due to an incandescent
lamp generator, and said:

"I have been devoting the last 12
years to the developing of this lamp principle, and naturally I have a fatherly interest in the feat performed by it under the direction of Secretary Daniels."

The Dr. Forest statement did not mention the A. T. & T. or any of its engineers. A reporter read this statement to James D. Ellsworth, head of the information department of the telephone company. "You may say for the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.," Ellsworth said, "that the long distance tests to San Francisco and Hawaii were conducted entirely by the company's engineers. The Navy's representatives conspicuously loaned the use of their towers and were interested observers."

He said that none of Dr. Forest's statements were used, and declared that the new appliances were the discoveries of the company's engineers.

To Chief Engineer John J. Carly is given most of the credit for the wireless accomplishment, and President Vail congratulated him and his staff.

Carly, of Cambridge, Mass., is a pioneer in telephony, having been in it since 1878. He possesses the order of the Hilling Sun, conferred upon him by the Emperor of Japan.

Gherard said that something entirely new had been discovered and other things greatly developed.
"Our success," he said, "has been achieved through three things: First, the arrangement connecting the wire, telephone with the wireless system at the wire; second, a special apparatus for transmitting the speech into the ether;
third, the connection which receives the speech from the ether at the receiving station, and fourth, the connection which puts the voice back on the wire.
The new appliances are all at the present. So far as the original sending of voice and the final receiving of conversation goes, the ordinary day instrument now in use is perfectly satisfactory."

At that the wireless system is not a new drawn from over
"But it is a wireless telephoning. One is "talking" to that mysterious disturbance in the atmosphere. Another is the interference of other stations, though

"tuning" will help to remedy that.
Third there is no secrecy. Anyone can "tune" a receiving instrument so as to hear you.

"But for reaching ships at sea and inaccessible points on land, and in fact, for reaching places where wires can't reach, I believe this system will be of incalculable value."
He said he believed that the army and navy could make great use of the wireless telephone. "Conversation

from ship to ship," he said, "would be easy."

The experiments of Carly and his aides have been going on, Gherard said, for several years. Early this year they talked from an experimental tower at Montauk Point to a privately-owned tower at Wilmington, Del., 250 miles. Soon afterward they talked from Montauk Point to a tower at St. Simons Island, Ga., 1000 miles.

TEN OF CREW, MADDENED BY DRINK, GO ON A "DEVIL HUNT"

Dutch sailors in the North Sea kill 10 of Their Mates and Throw Every-thing Movable Overboard.
GRIMSBY, England, Sept. 15.—The Norwegian steamer Jonas Rehn has just brought into this port 10 demented survivors of the crew of 13 belonging to the Dutch lugger Nordsee.
The Nordsee was picked up derelict in the North Sea with the 10 men insane, presumably through over indulgence in raw liquor. The men say the ship was full of "devils" and apparently they started on a "devil hunt," throwing overboard everything movable which in their opinion would be likely to harbor devils—the captain's binnacle, hatchets, ropes, spars and sails all going into the sea. They turned on three of their mates who, judging by the appearance of the cabin, put up a desperate fight before being killed.
The authorities are undecided whether to send the sailors to Holland or order their removal to Bow street for extradition proceedings.

6 PASSENGERS HURT WHEN 2 WABASH COACHES TURN OVER

Sleeping Cars of St. Louis-Kansas City Express Derailed Near Wellsville, Mo.
Six passengers in the two rear sleeping cars of the St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha express train of the Wabash railroad were slightly injured last night when the coaches were derailed three-fourths of a mile west of Wellsville, Mo. The train left St. Louis at 9 p. m., in charge of conductor D. W. Maroney and Engineer C. H. Daniels. The wreck was at 11:45 p. m.
The derailment, according to reports received at the general superintendent's office in St. Louis, was due to a broken rail. The Kansas City sleeping car was turned partly over, and the Des Moines car was completely overturned.
The injured were: Andrew Miller, 3444 Botanical avenue, St. Louis; injured across back, taken to a broken rail. The Kansas City sleeping car was turned partly over, and the Des Moines car was completely overturned.

HILL'S TERRACE CHILDREN RAISE $10.50 FOR BABIES

Two Evenings Devoted to Third Annual Benefit in This District of St. Louis.

CONTRIBUTIONS:
Previously acknowledged: $4414.11
Carnival at 1425 Hill's terrace: 10 50
Total: $4424.61

Despite the pressure of hard conditions upon many people residing in the neighborhood, children of Hill's terrace finally determined not to forego the effort, highly successful in two preceding years, in behalf of the destitute and physically distressed babies of St. Louis. In 1912, which was the first in which active interest in the cause was evidenced by the girls and boys of that vicinity, they raised $104. Last year, with conditions unlikelier because of unemployment, they obtained only $44. This season, with not a few friends of the cause suffering hardship from unemployment, the little ones hesitated about undertaking the enterprise, but at length determined to do what they could for the infants dependent upon the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice League. The result was an addition of $10.50 to the fund, a sum that, small by comparison with more favorable years, is yet handsome and will yet go a long way toward sustaining the movement until cold weather lessens the necessity for relief.

Prepared for it two weeks. For two weeks the children, led by Miss Lillian Schaefer, 14 years old, exerted themselves in the arrangement of a carnival which they early decided to hold on the lawn of Hill's terrace. Much of the time remaining after completing their studies was given to selling tickets, soliciting donations for sale at the carnival, planning decorations, having a stage erected and mastering the respective parts to be taken by each in the affair. All these matters were given skilled attention and the entertainment throughout reflected the excellence of the preparatory work.

The main carnival was held Saturday evening, in connection with the program of songs, recitations and dances, and proved most delightful to a large assemblage of people from a broad district. For the sales branch there were trees, lemonade and soda water, and a third for ice cream. At each was a band of pretty, beautifully dressed and smiling little misses, who entered upon the business of disposing of the commodities with a zeal and efficiency that could not be surpassed, and that would have realized a far greater sum but for the adverse conditions which could not be overcome.

Monday evening a supplementary effort consisted of a dance, with the same little misses and boys central figures. For this a tarpaulin was stretched upon the lawn and a piano placed to advantage to furnish music, and young people made the evening a merry one with resultant benefit to the babies' relief fund.

The children who responded so nobly to the leadership of Miss Schaefer include 10 girls and three boys, as follows: Misses Ethel Merrill, Violet Gilmartin, Lillian Callahan, Dorothy Pines, Marie Schaefer, Lucille Pines, Mary Fox, Marie Schaefer, Leonora Sullivan, Adelaide Crowley, and Masters Cecil Allen, Homer Allen and Arnold Price. Mothers of these youthful philanthropists also cooperated heartily and effectively throughout, and merchants of the neighborhood were exceedingly generous in their donations for the merchandising feature of the benefit.

Water in Sangamon "Diluted Sewage." SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 1.—Sangamon River water is nothing less than diluted sewage, says Dr. C. St. Clair Drake, Secretary of the State Board of Health. He holds this fact responsible for the epidemic of typhoid fever in Menard county, which has killed 12 cases developed in the county. There have been six deaths.

WOMAN WHO SUED DR. HILL SAYS IT IS FOR BUSINESS ACCOUNTING

Report of Breach of Promise Proceeding Against New York Promoter Abandoned, Miss Covington Declines.
ALBANY, Mich., Oct. 1.—Miss Lucille Covington, in whose behalf a suit for $100,000 was filed in New York against the Rev. John Wesley Hill, says the action is not for breach of promise, but for an accounting for money she gave to Dr. Hill to invest.
Miss Covington is in Albany on business connected with a fraternal order for which she is district organizer. The report of a breach of promise suit was abandoned, she said.
She said she had not seen Dr. Hill since last April and that their business relations terminated five years ago.

MAN REFUSES TO TELL HOW HE WAS WOUNDED

John O'Hara Mysteriously Shot
3 Times at Eighth Street
and Cass Avenue.

John O'Hara, 23 years old, of 1313A North Seventh street, who says he recently has worked as property man for a circus, either cannot or will not tell who shot him near Eighth street and Cass avenue about 2:30 last night.

O'Hara is in a serious condition at the city hospital. He has wounds, said by hospital doctors to have been made by three bullets. Two of the bullets passed through his body, one at each shoulder. The other bullet lodged in his left arm. All were fired from the front, the surgeons say, although O'Hara says he was shot from behind.

O'Hara said he had gone out to buy some tobacco and was returning home through an alley south of Cass avenue and east of Eighth street, when a man stepped from behind a telephone pole and opened fire on him. He said he could not identify the man.

Louis Leisler of 1408 North Ninth street told the police he believed the shooting occurred on a vacant lot between Eighth and Ninth streets, on Cass avenue. He said he was passing the lot when he heard several young men quarreling. He heard four shots fired and saw the men scatter and run.

Policemen went to the vacant lot and found O'Hara's cap and a leather revolver holster lying on the ground. After being shot O'Hara went to the office of Dr. Edwin Sauter at 1321 North Seventh street, directly under the O'Hara home. His mother, Mrs. Mary O'Hara, was talking to Dr. Sauter when her son entered. After giving emergency treatment Dr. Sauter had O'Hara removed to the city hospital.

Though the police believe O'Hara is trying to shield the person who shot him, O'Hara's mother said he had no enemies and, so far as she knew, had no "gang" affiliations.

SOCIETY

MR. AND MRS. ARTHUR W. LAMBERT of 6470 Forsyth boulevard, accompanied by their daughter, Miss Mary Lambert, have gone to Reedsburg, Wis., to be present at the marriage of their son, William Henry Lambert, and Miss Bessie Rood, which will take place there tomorrow.

They will return directly after the wedding, as Miss Mary Lambert will be one of the maids of honor at the Valedictory ball.

Miss Lambert will be maid of honor for the bride and Eugene Ghent, a professor in the Missouri University at Columbia, will be best man.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, and it was while there that he met Miss Rood, at the same time he and Mr. Ghent were roommates and chums.

The bride is a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Rood of Reedsburg and has twice been the guest of Mrs. Lambert here. After their honeymoon trip Mr. Lambert and his bride will come to St. Louis and will make their home for the present with Mr. Lambert's parents.

MR. HAROLD BIXBY of 5381 Berlin avenue, has as his guest Miss Emilie Rich of New York, who was one of the bridesmaids last November at the wedding of Mrs. Bixby, who was Miss Elizabeth Case.

Miss Mary Dee Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Breckinridge Jones of 45 Portland place, has returned from Harbor Point, where she has been spending a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. William Nisbett Matthews, who have been residing at 5506 Cabanne avenue, have taken an apartment at 5554 Cates avenue.

Mrs. Matthews will be one of the matrons of honor at the Valedictory ball and will depart afterwards for Chicago to spend about a week.

Miss Sophie Moffitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel L. Moffitt of 48 Kingsbury place, has returned to Dana Hall, Wellesley College, where she is a student.

Hotel Jefferson—The Japanese Tea Room will open for the season Monday, October 4.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo de Smet Carton of 476 Westminster place, who have been at Sauntertown, R. I., all summer, will remain there until the middle of October.

Miss Laurie Kaler of 637 West Pine boulevard, has returned from the North, where she spent the summer. Part of the time she was in Chicago with her sister, Mrs. Kehoe, when she was playing in the golf tournament.

Petra—a city carved from solid rock and left deserted by the ancients, who built it, will be featured in Frank E. Robertson's travelogue, "Arabia," Saturday afternoon at the Odéon. Admission is 10 cents, with the coupon on the first page of today's Post-Dispatch.

Man Found Dead on Father's Grave. FORTIA, Ill., Oct. 1.—Jonas Ewalt, a business man of Yates City, Ill., who has been missing since Sept. 20, was found dead last night on his father's grave in the cemetery at Elwood, Ill. Suits modeled on youth lines—full of snap and ginger—the last word of fashion for the young fellows who know what is what.

Model J—Like Cut—has a form-fitting coat with three buttons, a medium gored, straight soft roll lapel and regular flap pockets. A distinctive feature of this style is the short graceful lapel which looks as well buttoned to the top button as it does rolled to the second button. The vest has white plique edging on neck. The pants are straight cut and have tunnel belt loops.

Model N—Another New Style—peaked lapel, is slightly more rounded at the front of the skirt and has patched pockets.

We cannot describe all the models, but there is one for every figure and every taste—in the snappiest grays, browns, blues, stripes and checks—the cleverest fabrics and colorings you ever laid your eyes on. Come to Schmitz & Shroder tomorrow and "DRESS UP."

Bayonne (New Jersey) New Jersey

ST. LOUISAN IN 15 MINUTES MAKES $30,000 IN WHEAT

William Lanyon Long in September Option When Chicago Shorts Are Squeezed.

William Lanyon of 440 Lindell boulevard, wealthy mine owner and grain dealer, with offices in the Pierce building, made a profit more than $30,000 in wheat in 15 minutes yesterday, when a "squeeze" of September shorts in the Chicago market sent the price "rocketing" from $1.05 to $1.15, as trading closed.

Lanyon was credited with having 200,000 bushels of September wheat in Chicago, bought from "shorts" below 99 cents. Contract stocks there were not sufficient to provide deliveries yesterday, which was the last trading day in the September option. With Lanyon holding long contracts the shorts were forced to buy in their trades, and in doing so forced the market upward.

Not until the price crossed $1.10 did Lanyon begin to market his holdings through commission houses with Chicago wires. The deal was one of the most sensational ever made in the September option, and the unfortunate position of the shorts was forcibly shown in that while the rise was taking place in Chicago, September wheat on the Merchants Exchange dropped 2 cents to $1.05.

Lanyon told a Post-Dispatch reporter today that in holding his long September wheat he was practically betting on a sure thing. "You see," he said, "the recent wet weather prevented any accumulation of wheat in Chicago elevators, despite a record crop, as the wheat has been delayed for over sixty days."

"Chicago wheat shorts, knowing the crop was a huge one, sold the September wheat option freely, thinking receipts would be amply sufficient to meet contracts. But the reverse was the case, and as recent shipments have been readily taken by millers and elevators there was practically no wheat left for delivery by the shorts."

"The situation was the most peculiar I have ever seen in the wheat market, and might never happen again. With a crop of nearly 1,000,000,000 bushels of wheat in the country, a record harvest, continued rains have kept the market movement down to unusually small proportions."

"The shorts were unfortunate in selling the future contracts much below the cash wheat market, which has ruled constantly from $1.10 to $1.15. Cash wheat yesterday in Chicago was quoted around $1.17 and with the future selling at $1.05 there was nothing for the shorts to do but buy their way out in the pit. The price might have been forced much higher."

Lanyon has been interested in some of the most spectacular deals ever recorded on the Merchants' Exchange. In one venture he was forced to settle short May wheat in Chicago at $1.04, when the cash market was 92 cents. At another time he engineered a successful deal in May corn.

AMERICAN WHO LIVED IN ITALY 5 YEARS EXPELLED
Indiana Man Ordered Arrested by Cabinet Member Action Ministry to Him.

BERNE, Switzerland Oct. 1.—The American Alpinist, Henry Fairbanks Montagnier of Terre Haute, Ind., had an unpleasant experience at San Remo, where he was arrested by the Italian authorities last Sunday upon his arrival from Nice, by order of the Minister of Interior at Rome, on the ground that his presence constituted a danger to public safety.

He was taken by two carabinieri to a prison, where he spent two nights and one day. He then was taken by the Chief of Police, who informed him he would be expelled from Italy. He chose to go to Switzerland and was conducted to Chiasso.

Montagnier asserts that he had lived for five years at San Remo, and was greatly surprised at his arrest, the reason for which he has not been able to fathom. He intends, he declares, to protest through American diplomatic channels at Berne, Rome and Washington against the order expelling him from Italy and hopes to have it rescinded.

The Jarr Family

Written for the Post-Dispatch
By Roy L. McCordell.

Mr. Jarr Decides That, After All,
Life's Just What We Think It Is.

MAYBE Gertrude will come back," said Mr. Jarr, soothingly. The hour was late and Mr. Jarr was sitting in the dark in the front room of the flat. Mr. Jarr started to whistle. By some unlucky chance he piped up a song of several years ago. "Gee, I Wish I Had a Girl!" It struck an aching chord in Mrs. Jarr's breast.

"Oh, dear!" she cried testily. "I wish you wouldn't whistle that! It reminds me that Gertrude left us. And after all I did for that girl, too! Why did she quarrel with my mother and leave me after the nice way I always treated her? She might have remembered that my mother was only acting, as she thought, for the best."

"A lot of these people do their very best, when acting for the best," volunteered Mr. Jarr. "The man killed by accident is just as dead as the man murdered."

"I wish you wouldn't accuse my mother of being a murderer," whimpered Mrs. Jarr. Mr. Jarr was not making such an accusation. Did he speak from his heart the term would be only too mild for his mother-in-law. He changed the subject, and said soothingly, "Ah, don't worry, Gertrude will come back and rule our cuisine as heretofore."

"That's easy enough for you to say," Mrs. Jarr complained. "I wish I could help you," said Mr. Jarr, "but you know I cannot take the housework to the office, and sweep the floor here for you while doing my other work downtown."

"Oh, I knew you'd only make fun of me," whimpered Mrs. Jarr. "Why didn't your mother stay and help with the housework, if she came here and raised a row with Gertrude that was the cause of Gertrude's leaving?" remarked Mr. Jarr.

"My mother is one of those old-fashioned women who never like to interfere in other people's affairs," said Mrs. Jarr. "So she went home after Gertrude left."

"How very considerate," sneered Mr. Jarr. "Your mother comes here and starts a fight and when Gertrude leaves your mother goes serenely home and says she never interferes with her married children's affairs."

"Please don't start your favorite pastime of abusing mamma," said Mrs. Jarr. "She never says anything against you. She is very just in everything."

And while, as she often says, she advised me against marrying you, still it is too late now. You know yourself, if I had taken mamma's advice, I would have married that real estate man who made so much money that he had two wives and four automobiles, and then lost everything and shot himself.

"That would have been fine," said Mr. Jarr. "You might have been one of the brace of widows."

"Now don't talk that way," snapped Mrs. Jarr. "Mamma says, if Mr. Biggles—that was his name—had married me he might have reformed and given up drinking and not have borrowed money under false pretenses and ruined himself, as he did."

"Has thou regrets, little one?" asked Mr. Jarr. "Wouldst rather be the half widow of the late Mr. Biggles, or the sole wife and helpmeet of Edward Jarr, with all the worldly goods that he did thee endow?"

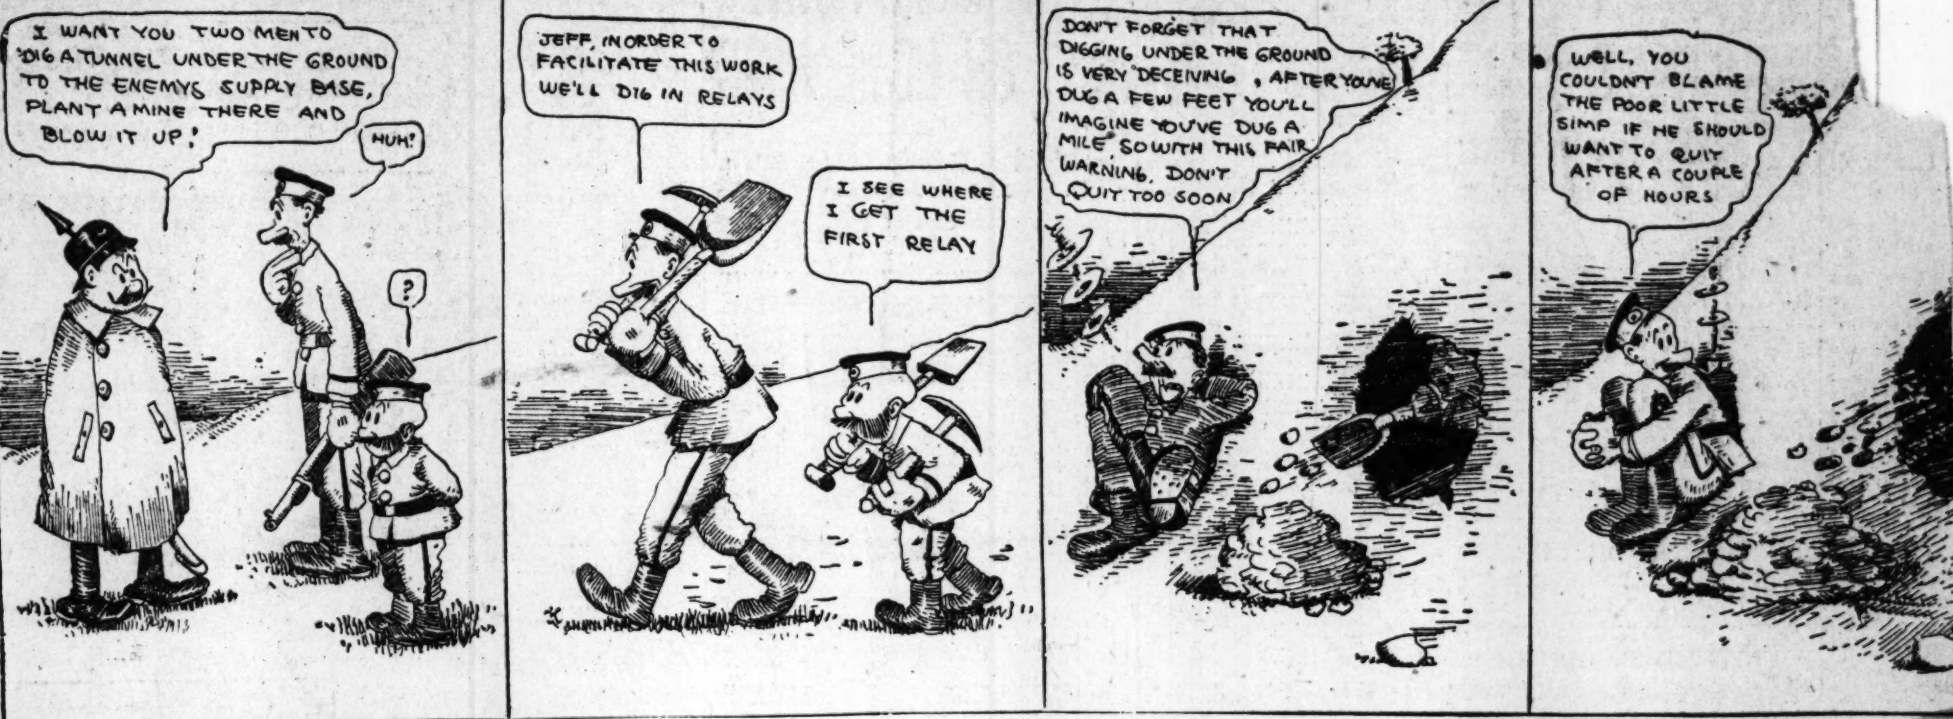

"You know I wouldn't," whimpered Mrs. Jarr, nestling closer to him in the dark. "But when one's servant girl quits without notice, and one's mother, possibly with the best intentions in the world, comes over and upsets one, why, isn't it enough to make a person peevish?"

"I should say it was," said Mr. Jarr, patting her hand.

"And after all, maybe Gertrude will come back, and we should be real thankful we haven't any real trouble, shouldn't we?"

And Mr. Jarr agreed with her. For after all, life is just what we think it is.

Ever Hear a Woman Get Off Something Like This?
DEARIE me, no, my husband doesn't make any bones at all about the few little affairs that he had with women before he knew me, but since then—ha, ha!—the very idea of such a thing makes me laugh!"

Aping the Elephant.

A 6-YEAR-OLD boy was eating peanuts. He ate them in the usual manner for a time and then poked one up his nose. Not getting the desired results in that fashion he went crying to his mother. She tried to remove the peanut, and after failing in the attempt called a physician. After the peanut was removed, the physician had gone and things settled down to some extent, the mother began to demand an explanation.

"Why in the world did you want to poke a peanut up your nose, anyhow?" she asked.

"Well," replied the boy in self-defense, "that's the way elephants eat them."—Indianapolis News.
